

Contents:

---

Abstract	v
Acknowledgments	vi
Abbreviations	xi

---

PART ONE: BRANDOM ON CONCEPTS, OBJECTIVITY, SUBJECTIVITY AND SOCIALITY

---

Chapter One: Conceptuality and Normativity	1
Introduction	1
1.1. Kant on Intentionality and Normativity	4
1.2. Sellars	11
1.3. Brandom on Conceptuality and Normativity	14
1.3.1. The Primacy of a Normative Pragmatics	15
1.3.2. Brandom's Semantics	23
Chapter Two: Objectivity	40
Introduction	40
2.1. Kant on Objectivity and the Universal Validity of the Categories	42
2.2. Fichte's "Intersubjective" Turn Toward Objectivity	48
2.3. Brandom on Objectivity	60
Chapter Three: Sociality, Subjectivity and Truth	95
Introduction	95
3.1. Sociality: I-Thou and I-We	95
3.2. Subjectivity, Self-Consciousness and "I" – Fichte, then Brandom	111
3.3. Truth	138
Chapter Four: Conclusion of Part 1 and Brandom's Hegel	150
4.1. Conclusion	150
4.2. Brandom's Hegel	151

---

PART TWO: HEGEL ON OBJECTIVITY, SUBJECTIVITY AND SOCIALITY

---

Chapter Five: Hegel	166
Introduction	166
5.1. Objectivity and Apperception	168
5.2. The Constitution of the Thing in Property	186
5.3. Being-for-Me and Being-Mine	195

---

PART THREE: A HEGELIAN CRITIQUE OF BRANDOM

---

Chapter Six: Introduction to Part Three and the First-Person	223
Introduction	223
6.1. The First-Person	227
6.2. Having a Perspective	232
6.3. Attributing a Perspective	240
6.4. Self-Recognition	248
Chapter Seven: The Second-Person	257
Introduction	257
7.1. First and Second-Persons	257
7.2. Second and Third-Persons	263
7.3. Brandom's Reply to Habermas	271
Chapter Eight: I, Thou and We	286
Introduction	286
8.1. Review of Brandom on I-We Social Practices	287
8.2. Validity and Lifeworld	290
8.3. Tradition and Authority	297
8.4. Constitutive and Genetic Priority: Hegel and Teleology	311
8.5. Back to Brandom	321
8.6. Sociality Beyond Discourse	330
Chapter Nine: I, We and It	338
Introduction	338
9.1. Deflationism, Phenomenalism, Propositionalism	339
9.2. Objective Idealism and Nominalism: Habermas	342
9.3. Nominalism and The Space of Reasons: Rödl and McDowell	349
9.4. Between Nominalism and Objective Idealism: Summary and Set-up	365
9.5. The Unboundedness of the Normative without the Unboundedness of the Conceptual: Heidegger.	369
9.5.1. Heidegger on Truth	370
9.5.2. Heidegger Contra Brandom	377
9.5.3. Nominalism and Space of Reasons Again	383
Chapter Ten: Hegel and Conclusion	396
Introduction	396
10.1. Appearance, Truth and the Unboundedness of the Conceptual in Hegel	397
10.2. Conclusion: Brandom, German Idealism and Hegel	414

Samenvatting

420

Bibliography

424