Contents

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS
PRELUDE

1. INTRODUCTION
1.1 Pentecostalism
1.2 Pentecostalism in Mozambique
1.2.1 Brazilian and prominent
1.2.2 Urban and gendered
1.3 Research topics and questions
1.3.1 Pioneering
1.3.2 Violence
1.3.3 Research questions and the book’s outline
1.4 Methodology
1.4.1 Researching religion in a city
1.4.2 Distance and Intimacy

2. PENTECOSTALISM IN AFRICA
2.1 Introduction
2.2 Pentecostalism, family and gender
2.3 Pentecostalism and (in)security
2.4 Pentecostalism and development
2.5 Conclusion

3. THE FORMATION OF A GENDERED NATION-STATE IN MAPUTO
3.1 Introduction
3.2 The reproduction of life in the formation of the nation-state
3.2.1 Labour migration and the colonial state
3.2.2 Mother Africa and Father Marx
3.3 The city in nation-state formation
3.3.1 The city as civilizing symbol of the Portuguese colonial nation-state
3.3.2 Frelimo’s continuation of the rural-urban divide
3.4 The nation-state’s gendered urban spaces
3.4.1 The socialist family in the city
3.4.2 Post-war period: A feminizing city?
3.5 Conclusion
4. TRANSNATIONAL SPACES OF CONQUEST: THE MOBILITY OF BRAZILIAN PENTECOSTALISM IN THE REPRODUCTIVE DOMAIN 81

4.1 Introduction 81
4.2 Religion and Mobility in Southeastern Africa 82
   4.2.1 Mission churches and AICs shaping the Mozambican nation-state 83
4.3 The transnational mobility of Pentecostalism 89
4.4 South-South Pentecostalism and the Lusophone Atlantic: ‘Macumba’ and ‘feitiçaria’ 93
4.5 Pioneering the urban reproductive domain transnationally 100
4.6 Conclusion 103

5. MOVING FRONTIERS: THE GENREATIONAL TRAJECTORIES OF PENTECOSTAL WOMEN 107

5.1 Introduction 107
5.2 Four generations of Pentecostal women 110
   5.2.1 Generation of 60-75 year olds 111
   5.2.2 Generation of 40-55 year olds 114
   5.2.3 Generation of 30-40 year olds 118
   5.2.4 Generation of 15-30 year olds 122
5.3 The rupture of continued pioneering 126
5.4 Conclusion 129

6. CONVERTING THE SPIRIT SPOUSE: THE VIOLENT TRANSFORMATION OF THE FEMALE BODY 133

6.1 Introduction 133
6.2 Socio-spiritual transformations 135
6.3 The South-South transnational spirit of ‘pombagira’ 140
6.4 Converting the spirit spouse: Embodying spiritual warfare 145
   6.4.1 Spirit spouse relations as communication 146
   6.4.2 Disconnecting the relational body 149
   6.4.3 Armed bodies 156
6.5 Conclusion 159
7. ‘TERAPIA DO AMOR’: LEARNING TO LOVE PUBLICLY

7.1 Introduction 161
7.2 Love, sexuality and marriage in Maputo 164
7.3 Romantic love, ‘telenovelas’ and Brazilian pastors 168
7.4 Brazilian Pentecostal Counselling 174
7.5 ‘Terapia do amor’ 177
7.6 Transnational Pentecostal therapeutic reflection and actions 181
7.6.1 Realizing love, disciplining the body 184
7.6.2 The violence of downplaying senses 191
7.7 Conclusion 194

8. THE SOUTH-SOUTH TRANSNATIONAL PROSPERITY GOSPEL: ‘HOLY BONFIRES’ AND CAMPAIGNS

8.1 Introduction 197
8.2 Burying Life 200
8.3 Money and changing dependencies in the urban domain 202
8.4 Tithes, offerings and campaigns 204
8.4.1 Business Courses 206
8.4.2 Luisa’s ‘holocausto’ 208
8.5 Pentecostal aid: Help yourself 211
8.6 Conclusion 217

9. VIOLENT CONVERSION: CONCLUSIONS AND DISCUSSION 222

9.1 Violent conversion 222
9.2 Pentecostalism, family and gender 226
9.3 Pentecostalism and (in)security 228
9.4 Pentecostalism and development 230

APPENDIX: BRAZILIAN PENTECOSTAL CHURCHES IN MOZAMBIQUE 233
Igreja Universal do Reino de Deus 234
Igreja Pentecostal Deus é Amor 237
Igreja Evangélica Cristã Maná 238
Igreja Baptista Renovada 240
Igreja Evangélica Assembleia de Deus 240

BIBLIOGRAPHY 243

NEDERLANDSE SAMENVATTING – DUTCH SUMMARY 283

RESUMO PORTUGUÊS – PORTUGUESE SUMMARY 293