CONTENTS

INTRODUCTION 10
Pancreatic cancer, an introductory overview 12
1.1. General introduction 12
1.2. Pancreas anatomy 12
1.3. Clinical presentation, diagnosis and management of PDAC 13
1.4. Treatment 14
1.5. Tumor biology 15
1.5.1. Pathogenesis of PDAC 15
1.5.2. Genetic alterations 16
1.5.2.1. Epigenetics 17
1.5.2.2. microRNA 19
1.5.2.3. EZH2 19
1.5.3. Metabolic reprogramming 20
1.6. Conclusions and future prospects 21
1.7. Outline of the thesis 22
1.8. References 23

Chapter 2: A polymorphism in the promoter is associated with EZH2 expression but not with outcome in advanced pancreatic cancer patients 27

Chapter 3: MIRN211 (microRNA 211) 47

Chapter 4: MIR-211 has a prognostic role and modulates gemcitabine activity through downregulation of ribonucleotide reductase in pancreatic cancer 53

Chapter 5: Galectin-4 expression is associated with reduced lymph node metastasis and modulation of Wnt/β-catennin signalling in pancreatic adenocarcinoma 63

Chapter 6: Impact of AKT/PI3K signaling pathway in pancreatic cancer and synergistic interaction of the novel Akt inhibitor perifosine with gemcitabine in pancreatic cancer cells 83

Chapter 7: Synergistic interaction of novel lactate dehydrogenase inhibitors with gemcitabine against pancreatic cancer cells in hypoxia 103

Chapter 8: DISCUSSION 130

Scope 1: Genetics and epigenetics factors influencing PDAC prognosis 133
1.1. EZH2 is a prognostic factor for locally-advanced and metastatic 133
1.2. MicroRNA-211 is a prognostic factor in resected PDAC 133
Scope 2: Targeting key signaling pathway and fuel supply in pancreatic cancer 134
2.1. Modulation of galectin-4 and Wnt/β-catenin pathway inhibit the 134
invasive behavior and proliferation of PDAC cells

2.2. Inhibition of Akt/PI3K signaling pathway in cells with phospho-Akt overexpression increases the chemosensitivity of PDAC cells to gemcitabine
2.3. Inhibition of LDH-A reduces PDAC aggressiveness and enhances sensitivity to gemcitabine

Conclusions and Future Directions
