Contents

1 INTRODUCTION

1.1. Deaths or serious injuries connected to government
1.2. Thinking about the role of government in society
1.3. A different path: unmasking administrative evil
1.4. What happens when things go wrong
1.5. Death and government: the numbers
1.6. What comes next

2 KEY CONCEPTS IN THEORY AND PRACTICE AND THEIR ASSOCIATED BODIES OF KNOWLEDGE

2.1. Introduction
2.2. Error management
   2.2.1. Error: a definition
   2.2.2. Error management: a definition
   2.2.3. Explanatory factors
   2.2.4. Reactions and responses
   2.2.5. Content of this dissertation in relation to the subject
2.3. Rule breaking by governments
   2.3.1. Introduction: rule breaking by governments
   2.3.2. Rule breaking by governments: a definition
   2.3.3. Explanatory factors
   2.3.4. Responses to rule breaking by government
   2.3.5. Content of this dissertation in relation to the subject
2.4. Integrity and corruption
   2.4.1. Corruption: a definition
   2.4.2. Integrity: a definition
   2.4.3. Explanatory factors
   2.4.4. Responses to integrity violations and corruption
   2.4.5. Content of this dissertation in relation to the subject
2.5. Organizational crime
   2.5.1. Organizational crime: a definition
   2.5.2. Explanatory factors: rational choice, ignorance or unwillingness
   2.5.3. Explanatory factors: Coleman’s model
   2.5.4. Explanatory factors: the model of Shover and Bryant
   2.5.5. Explanatory factors: the models combined
   2.5.6. Responses to organizational crime

2.5.7. Content of this dissertation in relation to the subject

2.6. State crime
   2.6.1. Introduction
   2.6.2. State crime: its various forms
   2.6.3. State crime: a definition
   2.6.4. Who are the perpetrators?
   2.6.5. What kind of criminal behavior?
   2.6.6. Explanatory factors
   2.6.7. Responses to state crime
   2.6.8. Content of this dissertation in relation to the subject

2.7. Unmasking administrative evil
   2.7.1. Different perspectives on evil
      2.7.1.1. What philosophers say about evil: Neiman and Bernstein
      2.7.1.2. What sociologists say about evil: Bauman
      2.7.1.3. What psychologists say about evil: Baron-Cohen
      2.7.1.4. What a multidisciplinary approach says about evil: Jurkiewicz
   2.7.2. Evil: a definition
   2.7.3. Administrative evil: a definition
   2.7.4. Administrative evil: an explanation, responses and masking
   2.7.5. Criticism of 'Unmasking administrative evil'
   2.7.6. Content of this dissertation in relation to the subject

3. RESEARCH DESIGN
   3.1. Introduction
   3.2. Central research questions
   3.3. Criteria for cases of death and serious injury
   3.4. Definitions and the terrain between error and evil
   3.5. Limiting the object of study
   3.6. Research methods

4. THE CATSHUIS FIRE
   4.1. Introduction
   4.2. Summary of the facts
      4.2.1. Timeline of events
      4.2.2. The technical cause of the fire
      4.2.3. Knowledge of the use of thinner
      4.2.4. Case characteristics
   4.3. Why: explaining the deaths and serious injuries
      4.3.1. Opportunities
         4.3.1.1. Organizational structure and division of responsibilities
4.3.1.2. Organizational culture
4.3.1.3. The political system and the relations with corporate partners and society
4.3.1.4. Rules, regulations and procedures

4.4. Motives
4.4.1. Primary motives
4.4.2. Secondary motives

4.5. Masking
4.5.1. Distance in time and space
4.5.2. Object-relations psychology/scapegoating (splitting mechanism)
4.5.3. Perspective
4.5.4. Language
4.5.5. Dehumanization
4.5.6. Technical rationality

4.6. Response of the governmental organizations involved
4.6.1. Language
4.6.2. External language
4.6.3. Internal language
4.6.4. Strategy

4.7. Position in the space between error and evil
4.7.1. Error
4.7.2. Rule breaking by government
4.7.3. Integrity and corruption
4.7.4. Organizational crime
4.7.6. Administrative evil

4.8. Conclusions

5. DEATH BY DROWNING: THE CASE OF THREE FIRE BRIGADE DIVERS

5.1. Introduction

5.2. Summary of the facts
5.2.1. Timeline of events
5.2.2. Case characteristics

5.3. Why: explaining the deaths and serious injuries
5.3.1. Shared causes
5.3.2. Opportunities
5.3.2.1. Organizational structure and division of responsibilities
5.3.2.2. Organizational culture
5.3.2.3. The political system and the relations with corporate partners and society
5.3.2.4. Rules, regulations and procedures
5.3.3. Motives
5.3.3.1. Primary motives
5.3.3.2. Secondary motives
5.3.4. Masking
5.3.4.1. Distance in time and space
5.3.4.2. Object-relations psychology/scapegoating (splitting mechanism)
5.3.4.3. Perspective
5.3.4.4. Language
5.3.4.5. Dehumanization
5.3.4.6. Technical rationality
5.4. Response of the governmental organizations involved
  5.4.1. Internal language
  5.4.2. External language
  5.4.3. Strategy
5.5. Placing in the space between error and evil, and conclusion
  5.5.1. Error
  5.5.2. Rule breaking by governments
  5.5.3. Organizational crime
  5.5.4. Integrity violations
  5.5.5. State crime
  5.5.6. Administrative evil
  5.5.7. Conclusions
6. THE CASE OF THE PROBO KOALA
  6.1. Introduction
  6.2. Summary of the facts
    6.2.1. Timeline of events
    6.2.2. The question of causality
    6.2.3. Case characteristics
  6.3. Why: explaining the deaths and serious injuries
    6.3.1. Opportunities
      6.3.1.1. Organizational structure and division of responsibilities
      6.3.1.2. Organizational culture
      6.3.1.3. The political system and the relationships with corporate partners and society
      6.3.1.4. Rules, regulations and procedures
    6.3.2. Motives
      6.3.2.1. Primary motives
      6.3.2.2. Secondary motives
    6.3.3. Masking
      6.3.3.1. Distance in time and space
      6.3.3.2. Object-relations psychology/scapegoating (splitting mechanism)
      6.3.3.3. Perspective
      6.3.3.4. Language
      6.3.3.5. Dehumanization
      6.3.3.6. Technical rationality
  6.4. Response of the governmental organizations involved
    6.4.1. Internal language
    6.4.2. External language
    6.4.3. Strategy
6.5. Placing in the realm between error and evil
   6.5.1. Error management 181
   6.5.2. Integrity and corruption 182
   6.5.3. Organizational crime 183
   6.5.4. Rule breaking by governments 183
   6.5.5. State crime 184
   6.5.6. Administrative evil 185
   6.5.7. The placing in the realm between error and evil 187

6.6. Conclusions 187

7. THE SCHIPHOL DETENTION CENTER FIRE 191

7.1. Introduction 191

7.2. Summary of the facts 191
   7.2.1. Timeline of events 191
   7.2.2. Case characteristics 205

7.3. Why: explaining the deaths and serious injuries 207
   7.3.1. Direct and indirect causes 207
   7.3.2. Opportunities 213
     7.3.2.1. Organizational structure and division of responsibilities 213
     7.3.2.2. Organizational culture 216
     7.3.2.3. The political system and the relations with corporate partners and society 216
     7.3.2.4. Rules, regulations and procedures 219
   7.3.3. Motives 220
     7.3.3.1. Primary motives 220
     7.3.3.2. Secondary motives 222
   7.3.4. Masking 223
     7.3.4.1. Distance in time and space 223
     7.3.4.2. Object-relations psychology/scapegoating (splitting mechanism) 224
     7.3.4.3. Perspective 225
     7.3.4.4. Language 226
     7.3.4.5. Dehumanization 227
     7.3.4.6. Technical rationality 229

7.4. Response of the governmental organizations involved 229
   7.4.1. Language 229
     7.4.1.1. Internal language 229
     7.4.1.2. External language 229
     7.4.1.3. Strategy 231

7.5. Placing in the space between error and evil 233
   7.5.1. Error 233
   7.5.2. Integrity violation 234
   7.5.3. Organizational crime 235
   7.5.4. Rule breaking by governments 235
   7.5.5. State crime 236
   7.5.6. Administrative evil 236
7.6. Conclusions

8. THE AP-23 LAND MINE ACCIDENTS AND SPIJKERS

8.1. Introduction

8.2. Summary of the facts
  8.2.1. Timeline of events
  8.2.2. Case characteristics
  8.2.3. The question of psychiatrization

8.3. Why: explaining the deaths and serious injuries
  8.3.1. Opportunities
    8.3.1.1. Organizational structure and division of responsibilities
    8.3.1.2. Organizational culture
    8.3.1.3. The political system and the relations with corporate partners and society
    8.3.1.4. Rules, regulations and procedures
  8.3.2. Motives
    8.3.2.1. Primary motives
    8.3.2.2. Secondary motives
  8.3.3. Masking
    8.3.3.1. Distance in time and space
    8.3.3.2. Object-relations psychology/scapegoating (splitting mechanism)
    8.3.3.3. Perspective
    8.3.3.4. Language
    8.3.3.5. Dehumanization
    8.3.3.6. Technical rationality

8.4. Response of the governmental organizations involved
  8.4.1. External language
  8.4.2. Internal language
  8.4.3. Strategy

8.5. Placing between error and evil
  8.5.1. Error management
  8.5.2. Integrity and corruption
  8.5.3. Organizational crime
  8.5.4. Rule breaking by governments
  8.5.5. State crime
  8.5.6. Administrative evil

8.6. Conclusions

9. COMPARISON AND ANALYSIS OF THE COMBINED FINDINGS OF THE CASE STUDIES

9.1. Introduction

9.2. Case characteristics
9.2.1. Deaths and serious injuries
9.2.2. Damage compensation paid
9.2.3. Nature of the connection between the governmental organization and the deaths and serious injuries
9.2.4. What rules are broken
9.2.5. Political consequences
9.2.6. Disciplinary sanctions
9.2.7. Sanctions concerning criminal law
9.2.8. Measures taken for the future/lessons learned
9.2.9. Number of investigations into the case
9.2.10. Number of years from start of the case till finish or present
9.2.11. Conclusions about case characteristics

9.3. Why: explaining the deaths and serious injuries
9.3.1. Opportunities
9.3.1.1. Organizational structure and division of responsibilities
9.3.1.2. Organizational culture
9.3.1.3. The political system and the relationships with corporate partners and society
9.3.1.4. Rules, regulations and procedures
9.3.2. Motives
9.3.3. Masking
9.3.4. Conclusions about opportunities, motives and masking

9.4. Response of the governmental organizations involved
9.4.1. External language
9.4.2. Internal language
9.4.3. Strategy and factors relevant to response
9.4.4. Conclusions about government responses

9.5. Concluding: Where would these cases be found in the terrain between error and evil?
9.5.1. Error management
9.5.2. Rule breaking by governments
9.5.3. Integrity and corruption
9.5.4. Organizational crime
9.5.5. State crime
9.5.6. Administrative evil
9.5.7. Conclusions about the ground between error and evil

10. CONCLUSIONS
10.1. Placing this research
10.2. Returning to the central research questions
10.3. The dynamics of governmental tragedies
10.4. Final remarks and opportunities to move forward

APPENDIX A: LIST OF PEOPLE INTERVIEWED
References chapter 4 The Catshuis fire

References chapter 5 Death by drowning: the case of three fire brigade divers

References chapter 6 The case of the Probo Koala

References chapter 7 The Schiphol detention center fire

References chapter 8 The AP-23 land mine accidents and Spiijkers

SAMENVATTING (SUMMARY IN DUTCH)

ABOUT THE AUTHOR