Table of Contents

Acknowledgements / Voorwoord ................................................................. vii
Table of Contents ....................................................................................... xi

1. Introduction .............................................................................................. 1
   1.1. Integration as a condition for immigration: the Act on Integration Abroad .... 1
   1.2. Approach ............................................................................................ 2
   1.3. Relation to other research ..................................................................... 4
2. Integration requirements and legal rules on the admission of aliens ........... 5
   2.1. Scope of the investigation ..................................................................... 5
   2.2. Sources of immigration rules ............................................................... 6
       2.2.1. International law ........................................................................... 6
       2.2.2. European Union law .................................................................... 8
       2.2.3. The Dutch Constitution ................................................................. 12
3. An integration policy for ethnic minorities (1979-1989) .......................... 16
   4.1. Developments in the fields of immigration and integration ................. 20
   4.2. A new integration policy ..................................................................... 20
   4.3. Learning Dutch as a second language: towards compulsory education for adult immigrants .............................................................................................................. 22
   4.4. Reception and integration of newly arrived immigrants ...................... 24
       4.4.1. Building up experience: reception programmes between 1990 and 1995 .... 24
       4.4.2. The introduction of integration contracts ...................................... 25
       4.4.3. ... and the first integration act .................................................... 26
       4.4.4. Target group of the reception and civic integration policy .............. 27
   4.5. Reception of refugees and other protected persons ............................ 28
   4.6. Integration in the country of origin ..................................................... 30
   5.1. Developments in the fields of immigration and integration ................. 30
   5.2. The ‘New Style’ Integration policy .................................................... 31
   5.3. Civic integration between 1998 and 2007 ............................................ 33
       5.3.1. Implementation of the Newcomers Integration Act 1998 and integration contracts for resident immigrants .......................... 33
       5.3.2. Compulsory integration for religious servants .............................. 34
       5.3.3. Adjustment of the course objectives for social orientation ............ 35
       5.3.4. Integration abroad for Antillean youths ...................................... 36

Part one: Integration and immigration in the Netherlands

2. Dutch integration policy and the Act on Integration Abroad ....................... 14
   2.1. Immigration to the Netherlands .......................................................... 14
   2.2. Integration or return migration? ......................................................... 15
   2.2.1. The Dutch Constitution .................................................................. 12
   2.2.2. International law ............................................................................ 6
   2.2.3. European Union law ...................................................................... 8
   2.2.4. The Newcomers Integration Act 1998 and integration contracts ....... 33
   2.3. Reception of refugees and other protected persons ............................ 19
   2.4. Learning Dutch as a second language: towards compulsory education for adult immigrants .............................................................................................................. 22
   2.5. Compulsory integration in the Netherlands and abroad (1998-2007) .... 30
   2.6. Integration in the country of origin ..................................................... 30

5.3.4. Integration abroad for Antillean youths ...................................... 36

xi
3. Concepts of integration and citizenship in the Netherlands .............................................. 53
   1. Introduction .................................................................................................................. 53
   2. Integration as an admission requirement ...................................................................... 53
      2.1. Integration as a ground for exclusion before 2003 ................................................. 53
      2.2. The Act on Integration Abroad: from inclusion to exclusion .................................. 54
         2.2.1. Inclusion: preparing for life in the Netherlands ................................................. 54
         2.2.2. Exclusion: the threat of continuing immigration ............................................. 55
         2.2.3. Selection: from motivation to education .......................................................... 56
      2.3. The legitimacy of exclusion: a balancing of interests .............................................. 58
   3. The integration exam abroad as an instrument of citizenship ........................................ 60
      3.1. Integration and citizenship in the Netherlands before the introduction of the Act on Integration Abroad ................................................................................................. 60
      3.2. The ‘New Style’ Integration policy: from ‘active’ to ‘shared’ citizenship .................... 63
      3.3. After enactment of the Act on Integration Abroad: a return to ‘active citizenship’ and social cohesion ........................................................................................................ 65
      3.4. Assessment: citizenship in the Netherlands and the Act on Integration Abroad ........ 67
         3.4.1. Citizenship in the Netherlands ......................................................................... 68
         3.4.2. The Act on Integration Abroad as an instrument of citizenship ....................... 72
   4. Concluding observations ................................................................................................. 74

Part two: Integration requirements in immigration law

A. Integration requirements and fundamental rights

4. Family life and family reunification ............................................................................... 77
   1. Introduction .................................................................................................................. 77
   2. Article 8 of the European Convention on Human Rights .............................................. 78
      2.1. Scope of Article 8 ECHR – family life .................................................................... 78
      2.2. Family life and the admission of aliens: the approach of the European Court of Human Rights ....................................................................................................................... 79
         2.2.1. Positive or negative obligation, fair balance or necessity? .................................. 79
         2.2.2. Admission of family members: still searching for the right approach ............... 80
2.2.3. Margin of appreciation ................................................................. 82
2.3. Balancing family life and immigration control: the criteria used by the Court .......... 84
  2.3.1. Interests of the state ................................................................. 84
  2.3.2. Interests of the applicants ......................................................... 86
  2.3.3. Some final observations regarding the fair balance test in admission cases .... 89
2.4. Article 8 ECHR in relation to integration requirements ............................................. 90
  2.4.1. Integration requirements and the interest of the state ......................... 90
  2.4.2. Integration requirements and the interests of the applicants ............... 92
2.5. Dutch case law with regard to Article 8 ECHR and integration requirements ....... 93
  2.5.1. Positive obligation and fair balance test .................................... 93
  2.5.2. State interests served by integration requirements .......................... 94
  2.5.3. Proportionality of integration requirements ................................... 94
  2.5.4. Intensity of review ................................................................. 98
  2.5.5. Approach of the Dutch courts in relation to Article 8 ECHR ............... 98
3. Articles 17 and 23 of the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights ....... 99
  3.1. Scope of Articles 17 and 23 ICCPR – family life and family reunification .......... 100
  3.2. Limitations to the right to family reunification ....................................... 102
  3.3. Articles 17 and 23 ICCPR and integration requirements .......................... 104
  3.4. Dutch case law with regard to Articles 17 and 23 ICCPR and integration requirements ................................................................. 106
4. Articles 3, 9 and 10 of the Convention on the Rights of the Child ......................... 106
  4.1. Scope of Articles 9 and 10 CRC – the right of children not to be separated from their parents and family reunification ................................................................. 107
    4.1.1. Applicability of Article 9 CRC to immigration cases .................... 107
    4.1.2. The right not to be separated ................................................... 108
  4.2. The possibility to exercise family life elsewhere .......................................... 109
  4.3. The obligation to treat requests for admission in a ‘positive, humane and expeditious manner’ ................................................................. 110
  4.4. Article 3 CRC – the obligation to let the best interests of the child be a primary consideration ................................................................. 111
  4.5. Articles 3, 9 and 10 CRC in relation to integration requirements .................... 112
  4.6. Dutch case law with regard to Articles 3, 9 and 10 CRC and integration requirements ................................................................. 113
    4.6.1. Dutch case law with regard to Articles 9 and 10 CRC .................... 114
    4.6.2. Dutch case law with regard to Article 3 CRC .................................. 115
    4.6.3. Dutch case law with regard to the CRC and integration requirements ................................................................. 115
5. The Family Reunification Directive ........................................................................ 116
  5.1. Object and purpose of the Directive .................................................. 116
  5.2. Eligibility for family reunification .................................................... 117
  5.3. Conditions for family reunification .................................................. 118
    5.3.1. The conditionality of integration requirements ............................ 118
    5.3.2. The relationship between Article 4 (1), final subparagraph and Article 7 (2) FRD ................................................................. 119
    5.3.3. Contents of the integration requirements ...................................... 120
    5.3.4. Limitations to the discretion of the Member States ..................... 120
  5.4. Dutch case law with regard to the Family Reunification Directive ................. 124
6. Interim conclusion: legal standards concerning integration requirements as a condition for family reunification ................................................................. 125
7. The right to family life and the Act on Integration Abroad .................................... 126
  7.1. Preliminary remark: family members eligible for admission ....................... 126
  7.2. The requirement of lawfulness ....................................................... 127
  7.3. The requirement of a legitimate aim .................................................. 127
5. Freedom of religion ................................................................. 136
1. Introduction ............................................................................. 136
2. Freedom of religion as protected by Article 9 of the European Convention of Human Rights ................................................................. 136
   2.1. Scope of Article 9 ECHR – the right of religious communities to self-organisation and the admission of religious servants ................................................................. 137
      2.1.1. Individual and collective dimension of the freedom of religion ............................................... 137
      2.1.2. Admission of religious servants .................................................................................................. 138
         2.1.2.1. El Majjaoui and Stichting Touba Moskee: the question left unresolved ......................... 138
         2.1.2.2. Omkaranaanda and afterwards: immigration measures used to curb the freedom of religion .................................................................................................................. 139
         2.1.2.3. Impossibility for religious organisations to continue their activities .................................. 141
         2.1.2.4. Final remarks concerning the scope of Article 9 ECHR .................................................... 142
   2.2. Limitations to the freedom of religion: Article 9 (2) ECHR ................................................................. 143
   2.3. Margin of appreciation ........................................................................................................................... 145
   2.4. Article 9 ECHR in relation to integration requirements ........................................................................ 145
3. Article 18 of the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights ................................................................. 149
   3.1. Scope of Article 18 ICCPR .................................................................................................................. 149
      3.1.1. The right of religious communities to appoint religious leaders .................................................. 149
      3.1.2. Admission of religious servants .................................................................................................. 150
   3.2. Limitations to the freedom of religion: Article 18 (3) ICCPR ................................................................. 151
   3.3. Article 18 ICCPR in relation to integration requirements ........................................................................ 152
4. Article 6 of the Dutch Constitution ................................................................. 153
   4.1. Scope of Article 6 Dutch Constitution ............................................................................................... 153
      4.1.1. The right of religious communities to appoint religious leaders ................................................. 153
      4.1.2. Admission of religious servants .................................................................................................. 154
   4.2. The restriction clause .................................................................................................................................. 155
   4.3. Article 6 Dutch Constitution in relation to integration requirements ................................................................. 155
5. Freedom of religion and equal treatment ................................................................. 156
6. Interim conclusion: legal standards concerning integration requirements as a condition for the admission of religious servants ................................................................................................. 157
   In the following paragraph, the legal framework established above is applied to the Act on Integration Abroad as currently in force in the Netherlands ......................................................................... 158
7. The Act on Integration Abroad in relation to the freedom of religion and the right to equal treatment ................................................................................................................................. 158
   7.1. Religious organisations in the Netherlands and servants from abroad ................................................................. 158
   7.2. Does the integration exam abroad form a limitation of the freedom of religion? ................................................................. 159
   7.3. Is the limitation justified? ........................................................................................................................ 160
      7.3.1. Prescribed by law ........................................................................................................................ 161
7.3.2. Legitimate aim ................................................................. 161
7.3.3. Proportionality and neutrality ........................................... 162
7.3.4. The restriction clause of Article 6 (1) Dutch Constitution ......... 163
7.4. Possibilities for exemption ................................................... 163
7.5. Discrimination on the grounds of religion? .............................. 163
7.6. Summary: compatibility of the integration exam abroad with the right to freedom of religion and the right to equal treatment ........ 165
8. Concluding observations ............................................................... 166

6. The right to international protection ........................................ 167
1. Introduction ................................................................................. 167
2. The right to international protection – a brief overview ............... 167
3. Family members of persons who benefit from international protection 169
4. The right to international protection and the Act on Integration Abroad 170
5. Summary and concluding observations ..................................... 171

B. Integration requirements, EU law and international agreements

7. The right to free movement in European Union law .................... 172
1. Introduction ................................................................................. 172
2. The right to free movement of EU citizens .................................... 173
  2.1. Citizenship and free movement of persons in the TFEU .................. 173
  2.2. The Residence Directive ......................................................... 174
  2.3. Situations not covered by EU law? ............................................ 175
3. Family members of EU citizens ............................................... 176
  3.1. Free movement or family reunification? ................................. 176
  3.2. Family members who are entitled to entry and residence in the Member States 177
  3.3. Conditions for the entry and residence of family members .......... 178
  3.4. Article 3 (2) Residence Directive: ‘facilitating’ entry and residence 179
  3.5. Additional residence rights for carers: from Baumbast to Ruiz Zambrano 180
4. The right to free movement of nationals of the EEA Member States and their family members .................................................. 181
5. Swiss nationals and their family members .................................... 183
  5.1. Free movement of Swiss nationals: the EC-Switzerland Agreement 183
  5.2. The right to entry and residence of Swiss nationals and their family members 184
  5.3. Other family members: the obligation to facilitate entry and residence 185
6. Third-country nationals who are long-term residents and their family members .................................................. 185
  6.1. The Long-term Residents Directive ......................................... 185
  6.2. Objectives ............................................................................... 186
  6.3. The right of long-term residents to reside in another Member State 187
  6.4. Compliance with integration measures as a condition for residence in the second Member State: the meaning of Article 15 (3) LRD 188
    6.4.1. Integration as a condition for residence? .............................. 188
    6.4.2. When may compliance with integration requirements be demanded? 189
    6.4.3. Contents of integration requirements .................................... 190
    6.4.4. Limitations to the discretion of the Member States .............. 191
    6.4.5. ‘Integration measures’ versus ‘integration conditions’? ......... 193
  6.5. Family members of long-term residents .................................... 195
    6.5.1. Definition of ‘family members’ in the Long-term Residents Directive 195
    6.5.2. The right to reside in a second Member State ...................... 195
6.5.3. Family members other than those referred to in Article 4 (1) Family Reunification Directive. ....................................................................................................................................... 197
7. Third-country nationals who are holders of an EU Blue Card and their family members. .............................................. 198
  7.1. The Blue Card Directive ........................................................................................................................................ 198
  7.2. The right of EU Blue Card holders to enter and reside in another Member State ............................................. 199
  7.3. The right of family members of EU Blue Card holders to enter and reside in another Member State ......................................................... 199
8. The right to free movement and the Act on Integration Abroad .......................................................................................... 200
  8.1. Nationals of the Member States of the EU, the EEA and Switzerland and their family members. ................................................................. 200
    8.1.1. Family members not entitled to the right of free movement................................................................. 201
  8.2. Long-term residents and their family members ............................................................................................. 202
  8.3. EU Blue Card holders and their family members .............................................................................................. 203
9. Concluding observations ........................................................................................................................................ 203

8. International relations and labour migration .................................................................................................................. 205
1. Introduction .................................................................................................................................................................. 205
2. International agreements concluded by the European Union .......................................................................................... 205
  2.1. The Association Agreement between the EEC and Turkey ......................................................................................... 206
    2.1.1. Standstill clauses: no new restrictions for the admission of Turkish workers and self-employed persons ........................................................................................................................................ 207
    2.1.2. Non-discrimination ................................................................................................................................................. 209
    2.1.3. Family members of Turkish workers and self-employed persons ............................................................................. 210
  2.2. Stabilisation and Association Agreements with the Western Balkan countries .................................................................................. 211
  2.3. International agreements concluded by the EU and the Act on Integration Abroad .......................................................... 213
    2.3.1. The position of Turkish nationals under the Act on Integration Abroad ........................................................................ 214
    2.3.2. Compliance of the Act on Integration Abroad with the Association Agreement EEC-Turkey, the Additional Protocol and Decision 1/80 ........................................................................................................................................ 215
3. International agreements concluded by the Netherlands ............................................................................................... 216
  3.1. The Dutch-American Friendship Treaty ...................................................................................................................... 217
  3.2. The Treaty on Commerce and Navigation between the Netherlands and Japan .......................................................... 219
  3.3. Agreements between the Netherlands and Suriname ........................................................................................................ 219
  3.4. The European Convention on Establishment ............................................................................................................. 220
  3.5. International agreements concluded by the Netherlands and the Act on Integration Abroad .......................................................... 221
4. Labour migration ................................................................................................................................................................. 222
  4.1. The EU Blue Card Directive ........................................................................................................................................ 222
    4.1.1. The EU Blue Card for highly qualified third-country nationals ..................................................................................... 222
    4.1.2. Family members of EU Blue Card holders ........................................................................................................... 223
  4.2. The European Convention relating to the Legal Status of Migrant Workers .............................................................. 223
  4.3. The European Social Charter (revised) .......................................................................................................................... 225
  4.4. Labour migration and the Act on Integration Abroad ................................................................................................ 227
    4.4.1. Standards set by international instruments ..................................................................................................................... 227
    4.4.2. The situation of labour migrants and their family members under the AIA and compliance with international instruments ........................................................................................................................................ 227
5. Concluding observations ..................................................................................................................................................... 228
C. Integration requirements and equality

9. The right to equal treatment: direct differential treatment on grounds of nationality and residence purpose ................................................................. 231
   1. Introduction ............................................................................................................. 231
   2. Legal framework concerning the right to equal treatment ..................................... 231
      2.1. The principle of equal treatment ................................................................. 231
      2.2. The right to equal treatment – relevant legal provisions ................................. 232
         2.2.1. International human rights treaties ...................................................... 232
         2.2.2. EU law ................................................................................................. 233
         2.2.3. The Dutch Constitution ................................................................. 234
         2.2.4. Applicability of the above provisions in admission cases .......................... 234
      2.3. Justification of differential treatment ............................................................. 234
      2.4. Scope of review and the relevance of 'suspect grounds' .................................... 236
      2.5. Formal and substantive equality and indirect differential treatment ................. 237
   3. Differential treatment on the grounds of nationality .................................................. 238
      3.1. Preliminary remark: nationality, alienage and national origin ......................... 239
         3.1.1. Nationality and alienage ................................................................. 239
         3.1.2. Nationality and national origin ....................................................... 239
      3.2. Is nationality a 'suspect ground'? ..................................................................... 241
      3.3. Is the differential treatment based on a reasonable and objective justification? ...... 243
         3.3.1. Compliance with international obligations: EU law and bilateral agreements .. 244
            3.3.1.1. Preliminary remarks: international obligations and state responsibility .. 244
            3.3.1.2. International obligations as a justification ground .......................... 245
         3.3.2. Foreign and economic relations ............................................................ 249
         3.3.3. Comparability of countries of origin ...................................................... 251
         3.3.4. Final remarks concerning justification .................................................... 253
      3.4. Dutch case law ............................................................................................... 254
   4. Differential treatment on the grounds of residence purpose ........................................ 255
   5. The right to equal treatment and the Act on Integration Abroad ................................ 256
      5.1. Differential treatment on grounds of nationality ............................................. 257
      5.2. Differential treatment on grounds of residence purpose ................................... 258
      5.3. Scope of the exemption and effectiveness of the integration requirement .......... 260
   6. Summary and concluding observations .................................................................. 261

10. The right to equal treatment: indirect differential treatment on the grounds of racial or ethnic origin ................................................................. 264
    1. Introduction .......................................................................................................... 264
    2. Legal standards regarding indirect differential treatment on grounds of racial or ethnic origin ................................................................. 264
       2.1. Relevant legal provisions ................................................................................ 265
          2.1.1. (Inter)national human rights provisions .............................................. 265
          2.1.2. EU law ............................................................................................... 266
       2.2. Discrimination grounds .................................................................................... 266
       2.3. Indirect differential treatment ........................................................................ 268
          2.3.1. Standard of proof .................................................................................. 269
          2.3.2. Which comparison to make? .............................................................. 272
       2.4. Justification of indirect differential treatment .................................................. 274
       2.5. Scope of review .............................................................................................. 275
       2.6. The prohibition of indirect racial and ethnic discrimination in relation to integration requirements ................................................................. 277