TABLE OF CONTENTS

CHAPTER 1. THE PROMOTION OF TOLERANCE

- Intolerance as a ‘normal’ phenomenon ........................................... 4
- Intolerance is easier to mobilize than tolerance ............................... 5
- Tolerance is to be learned .................................................................. 6
- Social norms are a key factor in the promotion of tolerance ............... 7
- A road map of this dissertation ......................................................... 9

CHAPTER 2. THE NATURE OF TOLERANCE AND THE SOCIAL CIRCUMSTANCES IN WHICH IT EMERGES 11

- On the nature of tolerance ............................................................... 11
- Tolerance in a historical perspective: securing stability in times of conflict ................................................................. 12
- The paradoxical nature of tolerance – accepting the disliked .......... 13
- Political, moral and social tolerance .................................................. 14
- Tolerance as an individual attitude and toleration as a societal characteristic ................................................................. 15
- Tolerance and prejudice .................................................................... 18
- The asymmetry of tolerance and intolerance – consequences for the mobilization of tolerance ................................................................. 19
- On the measurement of tolerance ...................................................... 20
- Classic and contemporary approaches in political tolerance studies ........................................................................... 20
- Discrepancies between the principle and the practice of tolerance ........................................................................... 22
- The predictors of tolerance: education, perceived threat, support for democratic values, personality factors and demographic variables ........................................................................... 23
  - Education ....................................................................................... 24
  - Threat ................................................................................................. 24
  - Democratic values and norms ......................................................... 25
  - Personality ......................................................................................... 27
  - Demographic variables: socioeconomic status, age, regional differences, religion and gender ............................................. 27

A social psychological perspective on tolerance

- Tolerance as an intergroup attitude .................................................. 30

Norms and tolerance

- Norm communication and the promotion of tolerance ..................... 33
CHAPTER 3. THE PROMOTION OF TOLERANCE – WHEN VALUES COLLIDE

Approach: the selection of schools

The orthodox Protestant school

The ecumenical school with a Muslim pupil population

The Waldorf school

Method

Research activities

Data collection

Interviews with teachers and school principals

Focus groups with pupils

Classroom observations

Data analysis

Results

The orthodox Protestant school: “Here we have something bigger than ‘I find’; that is God, and he says so.”

The ecumenical school with a Muslim pupil population: “It’s also a very Islamic school…, although there is a Western culture present here”

The Waldorf school - “I do think the [Waldorf school] has that tolerant approach”

Conclusion and discussion

CHAPTER 4. MEASURING TOLERANCE: THE DEVELOPMENT AND VALIDATION OF A PRACTISED TOLERANCE SCALE

The development and validation of a practised tolerance scale

Assessing the practice of tolerance

Measuring tolerance: accepting the disliked

Selecting a relevant subject of tolerance

Vignettes

Approach

Validation study 1 – Examining the content validity of vignettes

Method of validation study 1

Outcome of validation study 1 – content validity
Validation study 2 – Selecting a relevant subject of tolerance
Method of validation study 2
Sample
Procedure and materials
Measures
Outcome of Validation study 2
Selecting a relevant subject of tolerance
Tolerance as accepting the disliked?
A practised tolerance scale
Validation study 3 – Validating the practised tolerance scale
Method of validation study 3
Measures
Outcome of validation study 3 – scale construction and scale validity
Scale construction
Assessing the practice of tolerance?
Vignettes
Tolerance as accepting the disliked?
Factor analysis
Scale validity
Predictive validity
Convergent and discriminant validity
Validity in terms of known predictors of tolerance (threat, education) and the related concept of prejudice
Concurrent validity
Conclusion and discussion

CHAPTER 5. COMMUNICATING SOCIAL NORMS – A PATHWAY FOR THE PROMOTION OF TOLERANCE?
Norm communication and tolerance
The mobilization of tolerance
Method – An experimental survey study
Procedure 113
Sample 114
Materials and experimental design 114
Measures 117
Preliminary results 121
Tolerance 121
Descriptives 122
Characteristics of the respondents in each experimental condition 123
Results - The effect of norms on tolerance 126
Checking the norm manipulation 127
Norm perceptions and tolerance 129
The antecedents of norm perceptions 133
Counter-attitudinal and attitude-congruent norm communication 136
The mobilization of tolerance 139
Conclusion and discussion 143
Limitations of the study and implications for future research 146

CHAPTER 6. CONCLUSION AND DISCUSSION 149
Overview of results 149
Scientific and societal contributions 152
A social-psychological perspective of tolerance 153
Intragroup processes and the promotion of tolerance 153
The interrelatedness of tolerance at the micro-level and the macro-level 154
Methodological contributions 155
Potential limitations and their consequences 156
Discrepancies between attitudes and behaviour 156
Social desirability 157
The specificity of the practised tolerance measure 158
The operationalization of norms 158
How to promote tolerance? An interventionist perspective 160