Table of Contents

Abstract v
Acknowledgments vii
1. Introduction of the Problem 1
   The statistical mindset 7
   Philosophy and stories 16
   Diversity of interpretation 21
   Reading with purpose? 24
   A look ahead 27
2. Situation of the Project 30
   Academic and lived philosophy defined 31
   Mapping the terrain 36
   Key intersections 47
3. Fiction as Philosophy 50
   Fiction as philosophy and philosophical commentary on fiction 52
   Fiction as critical thinking 57
   Stories as history and fiction 61
   Form and content: Narrative means and ends 68
   Plurality and/or particularity? 75
4. Hermeneutical Situation 89
   Imaginative disclosure 92
   Philosophical commentary and normativity 98
   Revisable, immanent normativity 103
   Noncausal interactions 112
5. Narrative Friendship 123
   Narrative friendship 125
   Criteria for quality 131
   Becoming like our friends 134
   Evaluating friendships 136
   The characters we are 137
   Worlds 142
   Friend, lover, or companion? 145
   Belief and metaphor 149
6. Philosophical Stories 153
   Example, hammer, and companion 156
   Izzy, Willy-Nilly 160
   No Woman Born 177
   Tehanu 183
Conclusion 199
Samenvatting 210
Bibliography 219