TABLE OF CONTENTS

Acknowledgements i
Abbreviations vi

Chapter I  Introduction  1

A. A Basic Sketch of Adoption  2
   1. The Biblical Description  3
   2. A Description of the Terminological Background  6
   3. A Description of Our Era  8

B. The Current Discussion on Divine Adoption  9

C. Reviewing the History of Treating Adoption  10
   1. The Church Fathers  11
   2. The Reformation Period  16
   3. The Post-Reformation  19
   4. Various Efforts in the Late Twentieth-Century  27
   5. Some Theological Consensuses  28

D. Relevance of the Study  32
   1. Trumper as a Theologian focusing on Adoption  32
   2. Questions  35
   3. The Three Theological Lenses  45
   4. Statement of the Main Research Question  51

E. Statement of Thesis  52
   1. The Thesis of This Study  52
   2. The Method and Outline of this Study  53

Chapter II  Calvin as the Center of Treating the Concept of Adoption  60

Introduction  60

A. Calvin’s Use of the Concept of Adoption in his Works  61
1. The Context of Adoption 61
2. The Heart of Adoption 67
3. The Adoptive Life 81

B. Theological Framework 88
C. Conclusion 90

Chapter III  Confessions: The First Group Written Prior to Calvin 91

Introduction 91

A. The Sixty-Seven Articles (Zwingli, 1523) 92
1. The Background: The First Zurich Disputation 92
2. Characteristics: For Clarifying the Gospel 93
3. Relevant Issues: Articles 7, 8, and 27 94
4. Theological Analysis: Believers’ Sonship Based on Union with Christ 96
5. Conclusion 98

B. The Large & Small Catechisms (Luther, 1529) 98
1. Background: The Deplorable Conditions 98
2. Characteristics: Preaching Documents 99
3. Relevant Issues: The Creative Fatherhood, the Filial Notion, Union with Christ, the New Birth 102
4. Theological Analysis: “Doctrine and Life” 105
5. Conclusion 109

C. The Tetrapolitan Confession (Bucer and Capito, 1530) 111
1. Background: Where the Four German Cities Stand 111
2. Characteristics: The Political Character for Unity 112
3. Relevant Issues: The Filial Notion 114
4. Theological Analysis: Through the Relationship between Justification and Sanctification 120
5. Zwingli’s Fidei ratio (1530) 122
6. Conclusion 127

D. The First Helvetic Confession (Bullinger and Leo Jud, 1536) 128

1. Background: The First Reformed Confession of National Authority 128
2. Characteristics: Conciliatory Approach 131
3. Relevant Issues: Articles 10, 11, 19, 21, and 23 132
4. Theological Analysis: The Concept in Christology and the Sacraments 135
5. Conclusion 137

E. Analysis of the First Group (Prior to Calvin) 137

1. Introduction 137
2. The Distinctive Treatment of Luther’s Large & Small Catechisms 137
3. The Development from the Sixty-Seven Articles (1523) to the Fidei ratio 139
4. The Comparison among the Tetrapolitan Conf., the Fidei ratio, and the First Helvetic Conf 140
5. Conclusion: The Treatment of Adoption Prior to Calvin 142

Chapter IV Confessions: The Second Group Written by or Related to Calvin 144

Introduction: Family Life in 16th Century Geneva 144

1. The Institutions Dealing with Family Life 145
2. Marriage 146
3. Children 149
4. The Practice of Adoption 152
5. Conclusion: For Restoring Healthy Family Life 157

A. The First Edition of the Institutes (Calvin, 1536) 158

1. Background: For Pleading to the French King 158
2. Characteristics: The Sources and Structure 159
3. Relevant Issues: Justification, Christology, and the Lord’s Prayer 160
4. Theological Analysis: The Concept Treated in a Balanced Way 164
5. Conclusion 166
B. The Geneva Confession (Calvin, 1536)
1. Background: For Requiring Pledge
2. Characteristics: The Brief Style
3. Relevant Issues: Articles 6, 8, 9, 15, and 16
4. Theological Analysis: The Issue of Brevity
5. Conclusion

C. The Geneva Catechism (Calvin, 1541/42)
1. Background: After the Expulsion and Return
2. Characteristics: The New Order
3. Relevant Issues: QAs 12, 22, 46, 218, 250, 323, and 344
4. Theological Analysis: Focusing on the Life of God’s Children
5. Conclusion

D. The Consensus Genevensis (Calvin, 1551)
1. Background: The Bolsec Controversy
2. Characteristics: Revolving around God’s Election
3. Relevant Issues: The Concept Expressing God’s Grace in Election
4. Theological Analysis: The Relationship between Adoption and Election
5. Conclusion

E. The Confession of Faith of the English Congregation at Geneva (approved by Calvin, 1556)
1. Background: A Congregation of Refugees
2. Characteristics: An Example to See Calvin’s Influence
3. Relevant Issues: Articles 2, 3, and 4
4. Theological Analysis: The Familial Tone and Similarities with Calvin
5. Conclusion

F. Analysis of the Second Group (Written by Calvin or Related to Him)
1. Survey and Comparison
2. The Concept of Adoption in the Second Group of Confessions
3. The Second Group in Comparison with the Institutes of 1559  200
4. Conclusion  201

Chapter V Confessions: The Third Group Written after Calvin  202

Introduction  202

A. The Scottish Confession (Knox, 1560)  202
   1. Background: For Establishing the Church of Scotland  202
   2. Characteristics: Preaching for Motivating People  204
   3. Relevant Issues: Chapters 3, 8, and 13  205
   4. Theological Analysis: The Framework of the Salvation History  208
   5. Conclusion  210

B. The Heidelberg Catechism (1563)  210
   1. Background: For Having Unity  210
   2. Characteristics: Its Synthetic Feature  212
   3. “Christ eigen bin” as the Underlying Theme  213
   4. Relevant Issues: QAs 20, 26, 31-33, 53, 64, and 80  214
   5. Theological Analysis: Union with Christ as an Organizing Principle  218
   6. Conclusion  221

C. The Second Helvetic Confession (Bullinger, 1566)  221
   1. Background: For Helping the Elector  221
   2. Characteristics: Its Comprehensiveness and Catholicity  223
   3. Relevant Issues: Chapters 10 and 20  224
   4. Theological Analysis: The Concept in a Theological Framework  229
   5. Conclusion  230

D. The Thirty-Nine Articles (The Church of England, 1571)  230
   1. Background: Under the Long Political Changes  230
   2. Characteristics: Scriptural and Catholic  233
   3. Relevant Issues: Articles 17 and 27  234
4. Theological Analysis: The Christ-centered Treatment of Election 235
5. Conclusion 237

E. The Canons of the Synod of Dort (1618/19) 238

A Brief Introduction: Family Life in the 17th Century 238
1. Background: Arminianism 243
2. Characteristics: The Five Points Reacting to the Remonstrance 247
3. Relevant Issues: I-7, 10, 13, III/IV-3, 11, V-6, and 10 248
4. Theological Analysis: Emphasis on the Certainty of Salvation 252
5. Conclusion 253

F. The Westminster Confession of Faith (1647) 254

1. Background: The Struggles over Power 254
2. Characteristics: Clarity, Preciseness, and Accuracy 257
3. Relevant Issues: WCF 12 259
4. Theological Analysis: WCF 12 Making the Concept More Prominent 265
5. Conclusion 270

G. Analysis of the Third Group (Written After Calvin) 270

1. What Calvin Developed 271
2. The Post-Calvin Documents 272
3. Conclusion 274

Chapter VI Conclusion: The Place and Function of the Concept of Adoption 275

Introduction 275

PART I The Historical Task: The Place of the Confession of Adoption 277

A. The Overall Historical Lines Prior to and After Calvin 277

1. The Theological Framework Maintained in the Third Group 278
2. Relevant Issues Maintained in the Confessions 279
3. Adoption Distinguished from the New Birth 281
4. Adoption as a Relational Concept 282
5. Possible Issues Hinting at Calvin’s Treatment 282

B. The Contextual Nature of the Confessions 283
   1. The Context Influencing the Format 284
   2. The Relation of the Format to the Concept of Adoption 286
   3. As a Part of the Central Doctrines 288

C. Reconsidering the Meaning of Having WCF 12 290

D. Conclusion 292

PART II The Systematic-Theological Task: The Function of the Concept of Adoption 295

A. The Comparison with the Pauline Adoption 295
   1. The Gap between the Confessions and Huiotesia 296
   2. Three Differences Found in the Confessions 299
   3. The Basic Functions of Confessional Documents 302
   4. The Importance of Theological Context 303
   5. Reconsidering the Meaning of the Gap 305
   6. Summary 311

B. The Relevant Issues to the Concept of Adoption 312
   1. Fourteen Key Issues 313
   2. Clarifying the Relation of the Three Issues to the Concept of Adoption 330

C. The Advantages of Having the Concept of Adoption in the Confessions 345
   1. The Theological Function of the Concept in the Confessions 346
   2. The Potential for Presenting the Theological Framework 346
   3. The Trinitarian-Orientiation 349
   4. The Practical Implication of Having the Concept in the Confessions 350

D. How to Present the Concept in Confessions 351

E. Conclusion 354

Perspective 357

Bibliography 361