CONTENTS

Introduction: The Christological debate of 612 in Persia
1. Historical background: The Church of the East up to the Christological debate in 612
1.1. General overview
1.1.1. The Church of the East
1.1.2. Theological education in schools and monasteries
1.1.3. The Miaphysites in the Persian Empire
1.1.4. The organization and growth of the Church of the East
1.2. The main theologians of the fourth century
1.2.1. Aphrahat and Ephrem
1.2.2. Ephrem’s Christology
1.3. The beginnings of the ‘Antiochene School’
1.4. Theodore of Mopsuestia (c.350-428)
1.4.1. Theodore’s position within the Church of the East and outside
1.4.2. Theodore’s Commentary on the Nicene Creed
1.4.3. Prospopon (parsopa in Syriac)
1.4.4. Hypostasis (qnoma in Syriac)
1.4.4.1. Qnoma in the Commentary on the Nicene Creed
1.4.4.2. Qnoma in On the Incarnation (Inhominatio), Memra 8.
1.4.5. Soteriology, the two Catastases
1.4.6. Participation: Baptism and Eucharist
1.5. Nestorius versus Cyril of Alexandria
1.5.1. Nestorius and Cyril
1.5.2. The Liber Heraclidis
1.5.3. Nestorius’ Christological terminology
1.5.4. Comparisons with the Christological terminology of Cyril
1.6. The first Synod of the Church of the East, 410
1.7. The Byzantine councils of Ephesus (431) and Chalcedon I (451)
1.8. Narsai (c.415-502/503) and the Schools of Edessa and Nisibis until 540
1.9. The Synod of 486
1.10. The Synod of 544 with the letters of Catholicos Aba I
1.11. Justinian and the Byzantine council of Constantinople II (553)
1.12. Polemics in and around the School of Nisibis after 540
1.13. The Synods of the Church of the East between 553 and 604
1.13.1. The Synod of 554 held under Catholicos Joseph
1.13.2. The Synod of 576
1.13.3. The Synod under Isho’yahb I in 585 and his confession of faith
1.13.4. Sabrisho’ and his Synod in 596
1.13.5. Gregory I (605-608) and his Synod in 605.
1.14. The Arabs and the Church of the East
1.14.1. Introduction
1.14.2. The Ghassanid kingdom centred in the Golan Heights
1.14.3. The Lakhmid kingdom centred on Hira
1.14.4. Hira’s connections with the Arabian Peninsula
1.14.5. Examples of involvement with Christian culture in Hira
2. The Catholicoi of the Church of the East from 612 up to the end of the Persian Empire

2.1. Babai the Great
- 2.1.1. Life and works
- 2.1.2. Intellectual background. Theology and Philosophy
- 2.1.3. Main challenges
  - 2.1.3.1. Advocates of the one nature and/or one \( qnoma \)
  - 2.1.3.2. Henana
  - 2.1.3.3. Monastic circles and Origenism
  - 2.1.3.4. Epistemology
  - 2.1.3.5. Geo-politics and lay elites
  - 2.1.3.6. Babai of Nisibis
  - 2.1.3.7. Tradition. The authority of the Fathers
- 2.2. Babai’s Christology
  - 2.2.1. The human and divine names of Christ
  - 2.2.2. Descriptions of the union
  - 2.2.3. Mary’s title
  - 2.2.4. \( Kyana \)
  - 2.2.5. \( Parsopa \)
  - 2.2.6. \( Qnoma \)
  - 2.2.7. Christology and epistemology
- 2.3. The debate in 612
  - 2.3.1. The purposes and participants
  - 2.3.2. The content of the debate
- 2.4. Political and religious developments among Arabs around 612
- 2.5. The first Arab conquests in the Arabian Peninsula
  - 2.6. Isho’yahb II of Gdala (628-45)
    - 2.6.1. Life and works
    - 2.6.2. Intellectual background. Theology and Philosophy
    - 2.6.3. Main challenges
    - 2.6.4. Isho’yahb II of Gdala’s Christology
    - 2.6.5. Isho’yahb II of Gdala’s Christological terminology
      - 2.6.5.1. \( Kyana \)
      - 2.6.5.2. \( Qnoma \)
      - 2.6.5.3. \( Parsopa \)
- 2.7. Maremmeh (646-49/50)
3. Ishoʿyahb III of Adiabene (c.649-c.659) and his secular leaders 187
3.1. Life and works 187
3.2. Heraclius and the Chalcedonian doctrine 190
3.3. The Persians and their nobility 193
3.4. The Arab conquests in Byzantine and Persian lands 196
  3.4.1. Introduction 196
  3.4.2. Southern Iraq: Hira, Kufa, Basra and Bet Huzaye 198
  3.4.3. Tagrit, Nineveh and Mosul 200
  3.4.4. Damascus, Edessa and Nisibis 204
  3.4.5. The reactions of Christians to the Arab invasions and subsequent government 206
3.5. The Arabs and the Qurʾan 208
  3.5.1. Christians in the Qurʾan 208
  3.5.2. Christology in the Qurʾan 209
  3.5.3. Influences from the Church of the East in the Qurʾan? 213
3.6. Danger in Nineveh/Mosul 215
  3.6.1. Growing influence of Miaphysites within the Church of the East 215
  3.6.2. Miaphysites supported by ‘barbarian leaders’ and Persian nobles who changed sides 217
  3.6.3. The unknown years: Ishoʿyahb III’s strife for a better career 222
3.7. Problems in Nisibis 224
  3.7.1. Ecclesiastical authority contested: Cyriacus and Moshe 225
  3.7.2. Wars, famine, pestilence and poverty 229
  3.7.3. Growing influence of Miaphysitism 230
3.8. Conflicts in Arbela 234
3.9. The rebellion in the provinces at the Persian Gulf and the first civil war 241
  3.9.1. Introduction 241
  3.9.2. The first civil war 242
  3.9.3. The rebellion of Simon, metropolitan of Fars 243
  3.9.4. The rebellion on the coast of the Arabian Peninsula 247
  3.9.5. Rebellion and apostasy 255
3.10. Ishoʿyahb III’s position towards the Arabs and Muslims 257
  3.10.1. Ishoʿyahb III and the first signs of Arab rule in the Northern provinces 258
  3.10.2. Catholicos Ishoʿyahb III and the Arabs at the dawn of the first civil war 266

4. Ishoʿyahb III’s Christology and view on monasticism and Divine Paideia 270
4.1. Ishoʿyahb III’s view on Christological history 270
4.2. Sahdona 275
  4.2.1. Sahdona, the opponent of Ishoʿyahb III 275
  4.2.2. Sahdona’s Christology. 281
4.3. Ishoʿyahb III’s main Christological terminology and concepts 288
  4.3.1. Qnoma in Ishoʿyahb III’s letters 289
  4.3.2. Parsopa in Ishoʿyahb III’s letters 292
  4.3.3. Christology in letters of Ishoʿyahb III 294
  4.3.4. The Life of Ishoʿsabran and its Christology 305
  4.3.5. Indications for adaptations in themes and terminology? 310
4.4. Ishoʿyahb III and monasticism 318
  4.4.1. Contacts with the monasteries 318
  4.4.2. Regulating monasticism 324
  4.4.3. Mysticism 329
4.5. Philosophy and Divine Paideia 331
  4.5.1. Philosophy 331
  4.5.2. Divine Paideia 333
5. Other Catholicoi of the Church of the East until 700 337
5.1. Early Arab rule and its contested succession 337
5.2. The position of the Christians in nascent Islam 342
5.3. George I (661-80) 346
   5.3.1. Life and works 346
   5.3.2. Rebellion in Bet Qatraye: the Synod of 676 347
   5.3.3. George’s Christology 349
5.4. John I Bar Marta (680-83) 356
5.5. Henanisho’ I and John of Dasen, ‘the Leper’ (685-700) 356

6. Conclusions 360
6.1. The new Christological formula and Babai 360
6.2. Epistemology and Christology. The monastic life 366
6.3. Hira of the Arabs 368
6.4. Isho’yahb III and the Arabs 370
6.5. Isho’yahb III and his rivals 375
6.6. Adaptations in Isho’yahb III’s Christology? 377
6.7. The Christology of other Catholicoi in the seventh century 379
6.8. Reactions to increasing pressure on Christians and their basic tenets 381
6.9. Divine Paideia (mdabranuta) and the end times 382

Annexes 385
Annex 1. Map of the Middle East pertaining to Syriac literature (Duval) 385
Annex 2. Map of Iraq under the Abbasid Caliphate, with inserts on the vicinities of Bagdad 386
Annex 3. Map of Pre-Islamic Arabia. 387

Bibliography 388

Abstract 402